SALT LAKE (Uran June 22)—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A snag of formidable proportions has been struck in the final negotiations between the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake and the Oregon Short Line Railroad companies. Between three and four hundred miles of the latter's road south of this city was to have been turned over to the former at midnight tonight, but the money has not been paid and the transfer will not take place according to contract. How long it will be delayed no one here very

The failure to complete the deal has caused all sorts of comment, and there are many who predict that it will never be consummated now; but that conclusion hardly seems justified by the facts. It has apparently gone too far for that. The interests at stake are too great, the business reputations of the principals too high to admit of a falling-through now. At least, that is what the most conservative men think. But the failure has created a sensation here, and the forebodings are at all pleasant to listen to. Beyond the fact that legal complications are responsible for the postponement of the payment of the money and the transfer in New York, nothing is known in Salt Lake, and there is a veritable

The San Pedro company, which has opened elaborate offices here and which has a large force of clerks, presided over by numerous heads of departments, had made complete preparations to take over the road tonight at 1 o'clock, and to that end had moved scores of circulars, and new time tables which set forth that, beginning tomorrow, trains would run over the Leamington cut-off for the first time, a distance of 125 miles, and continue regularly thereafter. But all is upset, and there is abundance of speculation as to what it all means.

York, the San Pedro and Short Line officials are very much disinclined to speak this evening. Said General Manager Wells of the Clark road: "I have nothing to say, beyond that the transfer is scheduled to take place at mid night, and should do so unless the lawyers do a little more juggling."

Assistant General Manager Calvin C. the Oregon Short Line said this evening: "There has not been a word of news from New York today, and there will be no change in the absence of orders from the seat concluding negotiations, and unless word comes pretty quick, things will go on today.

Superintendent Henderson of the Salt Lake route said: "The absence news is now the most interesting feature. We are all ready to put the new time card into effect at midnight but until I get orders from head-

Superintendent Henderson's office was occupied and equipped this afternoon, even down to the connection

a score of telegraph instruments with the outside world, and awaiting operators tapped playfully at the keys and made merry with each other over

Disquieting as the delay is, thoughtful analysis of the situation scarcely justifies the fear that the de-between the two roads will be called off. On the contrary, it would seem to be certain that it will go on to a definite conclusion. There have been some pretty harsh things said here on both sides, each averring that the other is playing for an unjustifiable advantage. From an inside source on the show-

Line comes the statement that Senator Clark has seized upon a stipulated condition to which he was not entitled. And from the Clark offices it is claimed that Harriman has waited until he has the San Pedro people on the hip to drive a very hard bargain. But this is merely talk, for which officials of the

NOT AFRAID

Can be Spiked.Any Financial Bill Backed by

Estimates—Colombia's Hints
Not Considered.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The announcement that representative Cannon of Illinois, who will be the next Speaker of the House of Representatives, will oppose the passage of the Aldrich Financial Bill, or any bill framed upon the general lines of that bill, caused no surprise or apprehension at the Treasury Department. This was the fact that it was known last winter that Mr. Cannon opposed legislation that would introduce the element of elasticity into the currency system of the country, and the lack of apprehension was due to the knowledge among the Treasury and the public that the bill would be proposed before Congress at the coming session. It would have behind it the force of the approval of the administration and of the Republican party. In other words, the bill will be a party measure, made so by its urgent necessity in a business way, and those who know by personal interviews the exact attitude of Representative Cannon feel confident that, while he may be opposed to the bill as a matter of locality, he will not set his own opinion up against the opinion of the great majority of his party.

Mr. Cannon will be called into the final conference upon the bill, and Mr. Cannon will be asked to make a statement at the conference. It is also expected that at this conference it will be decided to introduce the financial bill at the opening of the extra session of Congress, which, it now seems probable, will start at Washington on November 3, and those who know they will not be surprised if the President were to call the extra session for the purpose of considering the Cuban reciprocity treaty and other legislation.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The surplus of the United States Treasury in its operations for the fiscal year ending today was $2,719,925, against a surplus of $2,193,330 for the fiscal year ending a year ago today, and against a deficit of $2,193,330 for the fiscal year ending a year ago. It may be stated that the increase of $7,000,000 in the surplus above the deficit of the Secretary is due almost entirely to heavy importations of unmanufactured merchandise within the last six weeks or two months, when the daily customs receipts of the Treasury have gone on from day to day at higher sustained figures than ever before known in the history of the government.

Although the surplus for the year is much below that of last year, the Treasury Department finds itself in a perfectly satisfactory condition, and prepared to meet any demands that may be made upon it. This, notwithstanding the enormous expenses of the government during last year, when the total of $2,719,925, against a deficit of $2,193,330 for the fiscal year ending today, shows a surplus balance all the more remarkable when it is borne in mind that in the last fiscal year the war-revenue act has not been in operation, and it is estimated its suspension means a difference of $7,000,000 in internal revenue receipts alone.

As a matter of fact, the internal revenue receipts for some months of the year actually showed an increase after the repeal of the war revenue act went into effect, and it was found for the entire year the internal revenue receipts amounted to $2,719,925, against total receipts of $2,193,330 for the last year, a falling off of only about $400,000, against the estimate of $77,000,000, made not only by the Treasury officials, but by leaders in Congress.

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) June 30.—Mrs. F. F. Evans, Jr., wife of the vice-president of the F. F. Evans Company, reported to the police today that she had been sandbagged and robbed of $18,000 while on a train en route to this city from Chicago last night. She states that she had gone to Chicago Monday to draw her $25,000 inheritance from the First National Bank of that city. After paying some debts, she started back on an evening train with $14,000 in cash and a certificate of deposit for $25,000. SHIP TRUST RECEIVERSHIP.

HOW IT AFFECTS BUILDING. WASHINGTON, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The new receivership for the United States Shipbuilding Company will not come with any shock of surprise to the authorities of the Navy Department. At least one of the shipyard owners who went into the trust with large ideas of its future assured the department several months ago, in a private communication concerning some government work in his yard, that a receivership was inevitable, and might come at any moment.

The attitude of the department toward this development will be, for the present, one of waiting. Time is allowed to discover what line of policy the receiver will pursue. It is hoped here that the same wholesome results may follow this change that have followed in the case of mismanagement of a crippled railroad, and that under exercise of the extraordinary powers of receivers, the government's work may be pushed ahead and get out of a wayward rut under the old regime.

Unfinished naval work in the yards of the trust includes the battleship Ohio, armored cruiser California and South Dakota and protected cruiser Tacoma and Milwaukee, all at the yards of the Union Iron Works. This is the largest single contingent under contract. It is possible some vessels may be taken over by the Union Iron Works and finished at Mare Island.

Lewis Nixon's case next, with the protected cruiser Chesapeake and the battleship Oregon and the Oregon. The Bath Iron Works has the battleship Georgia and protected cruiser Cleveland. Three monitors and seven submarines which were recently in the trust yards have been delivered to the government.

Under the specifications of the contracts in all these cases, the government is authorized, in event of serious delay, from causes not attributable to the contractor, to cancel the contract on written notice. Naturally this course would be avoided if practicable. It is the desire of the department not to add needlessly to embarrassments of the situation but to safeguard its own rights and to get ships.

The Bethlehem Steel Company is making a large quantity of armor for the ships now building, but its contracts are directly with the government and with other members of the trust. This fact will not, it is believed, save a great deal of trouble, because the government will be in a position to enforce its demands. Moreover, it is within the range of possibility that the Bethlehem company may step out of the trust and altogether escape a permanent receivership.

COMMERCE AND LABOR.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Secretary George B. Cortelyou will launch a new Department of Commerce and Labor tomorrow, on which date it becomes fully operative under the law approved February 14, 1903. The new department not only extends the scope of governmental supervision to commerce and labor, but causes the readjustment of many bureaus now under other departments, or which will be transferred formally to the new executive branch tomorrow.

Secretary Cortelyou will call the newly-transferred chiefs of his department into his private office in the morning, address them briefly as to the objects and aims of the department, and then will begin the work of organization. The Department of Commerce and Labor will embrace the following bureaus: Lighthouse Board, Light House Establishment, Steamboat Inspection Service, Bureau of Navigation, United States Shipping Commissioners, National Bureau of Standards, Coast and Geodetic Survey, Bureau of Immigration and Bureau of Statistics, which has been under the Secretary of the Treasury. Census Department, from the Department of the Interior; Bureau of Labor, Fish Commission, Office of the Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries, and Bureau of Foreign Commerce of State Department. Aside from the transfer of bureaus, there are created under the new law the Bureau of Manufactures and the Bureau of Corporations.

Most of the bureaus transferred from other departments have already moved to the building in Fourteenth street, which is entirely devoted to the new department.

PRESIDENT'S TRUMP CARD.

CORTELYOU TO HELP PAYNE.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At the direction of the President, the Bureau of Corporations of the new Department of Commerce has been called in to assist the investigators of the postal scandals in what the next step in the postal investigation. The efficiency of this new bureau will be tested for the first time. What is desired is the production of the lists of stockholders of every corporation which has been involved in any of the scandals uncovered since the postal investigation began.

The anti-trust legislation which authorized the creation of the Bureau of Corporations gave it power to call upon any corporation for such information as is needed in this instance. These lists, when obtained officially, will have an important bearing on the next step in the postal investigation. Many prominent politicians have been under suspicion of being stockholders in concerns which have enjoyed the favoritism of the Postoffice Department in rich contracts.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The State Department is not disposed to utter a single official notice of the utterance attributed to the Colombian Consul-General in London, ascribing invidious motives to the United States in connection with the Panama Canal project. It is said at the department, that with the exception of the president for complaining of the action of the Colombian officials located in the United States, it is not at all clear that a complaint could be lodged against a Colombian official in another country.

POSTOFFICE PROMOTIONS.

MANY AT NEW YORK.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)

WASHINGTON, June 30.—It was announced at the Postoffice Department today that the Postmaster at New York has been authorized to make 806 promotions in his office, involving $35,000 and 100 additional clerks at $600 a year, all to take effect July 1. In addition, $15,000 has been authorized for emergency clerk hire.

Cuba and German Claims.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Señor Quesada, the Cuban Minister, has received an inquiry from his government as to what, if any, claims he should have against the Cuban government, the Cuban Consul-General at Hamburg having advised his government that he was a German citizen. DRIED FRUIT IN GERMANY.

Report of Interest to California from

An American Consul Officer—Bad

Boxing and Slow Time in Shipping.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The following report on American dried fruits in Germany was received at the State Department today from an American consular official in that country.

"While in the United States last year I visited a number of large prune and apricot orchards in the vicinity of San José, Cal., and since my return to this country have given the importation of evaporated American fruits considerable study. For this part of Germany—namely, Baden and Alsace-Lorraine—I find the outlook for increased sales most encouraging. From a leading importer in the western part of Germany I learn that California prunes and apricots are rapidly supplanting the products of France and Italy. California fruit is cheaper and of a much brighter and more solid.

"Speaking of packing and drying prunes and apricots, my informant tells me he has no fault to find except that the packing is not as good as it should be. He says there would be less breakage if they were dovetailed, instead of being simply nailed. Regarding the transit, he says that he has experienced considerable annoyance and some loss of trade in consequence of shipments being delayed en route from California. One shipment was over a week in transit, and buyers think the goods were held in New York several weeks. California fruits are generally paid for in advance, which fact makes delays in shipments most annoying.

"The Elsassische Conserven-Fabrik und Import Gesellschaft, Straßburg, last season sold eight carloads of apricots, ten carloads of prunes and twenty carloads of apples, and prunes and apples retail here at from 12 1/2 to 15 cents per pound and apricots at 20 cents."

OBITUARY.

Thomas J. Clunie.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Gen. Thomas J. Clunie, for many years prominent as a lawyer, Congressman and citizen of California, died of Bright's disease at his home in this city today. He had been a sufferer for more than five years and about four weeks ago became moribund. He was sent to Byron Springs for a week, but there was no improvement, and he returned to this city. Every day he was visited by his family. With his wife by his side, the sufferer quietly passed away. He left no children.

Thomas Jefferson Clunie was born in St. Johns, N. F., in 1852. During the latter part of his life he was a member of the National Guard of California, in 1878. He served one term in the State Senate, and was elected to the Fifty-third Congress as a Democrat. Gen. Clunie left a large estate, including the Clunie Orange, Sacramento, the Clunie Building, San Francisco, and many other valuable pieces of property throughout this city.

Reorganization Plan.

NEWARK (N. J.) June 30.—Judge Kirkpatrick today announced to counsel representing complaining bondholders of the United States Shipbuilding Company that he had read all the papers in the case and had decided that the incorporation is insolvent, and that its directors had failed to take proper steps to protect the bondholders, and that he would have to appoint receivers to take over the company. He said: "I shall appoint receivers. I will hear counsel as to whom they may desire to name."

Charles C. Deming, for the defendant corporation, asked if it was not possible to appoint a receiver to agree on a receiver to take over the company. He said: "I don't see how the appointment of a receiver will interfere with going ahead with our plan of reorganization."

President Nixon was asked: "Will the appointment of a receiver interfere with the completion of work now under way or prevent the company carrying out any contracts it has undertaken?"

"Not at all," he replied. "The naming of receivers will, in the opinion of the court, enable us to do the things we want to do. I don't think the appointment of a receiver will interfere with the completion of work now under way or prevent the company carrying out any contracts it has undertaken."

NIXON'S RESIGNATION.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)

NEW YORK, June 30.—The directors of the United States Shipbuilding Company met here today, the stated object of the meeting being to act on the resignation of President Nixon. For reasons not given out, adjournment until tomorrow was taken without action. Mr. Nixon would say nothing regarding the meeting, except that his resignation probably will be accepted tomorrow.

CRAMPS' EXPANSION.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—The Commercial Trust Company of Philadelphia today granted an injunction restraining the William Cramp and Sons' Ship and Engine Building Company from increasing its capital from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. The stockholders at the meeting June 25 approved the increase. J. W. Orange and Andrew McManis, who are the controlling interests, are the ones who are increasing the capital and mortgage indebtedness.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The trustees of Rush Medical College have succeeded in raising a fund of $1,000,000, which will be tendered to the trustees of the University of Chicago tomorrow, thus assuring a gift of $1,000,000 from John D. Rockefeller, and the construction in Chicago of the most magnificent medical institution in the world.

All doubt as to the ability of Rush Medical College board to complete the mammoth subscription list was removed today. The men in charge of the campaign, who are now in charge of the campaign, have secured the cash, and authorized its proffer to the mother institution, and when the legal requirements have been met on both sides will send the money to New York to confer with John D. Rockefeller, who will be told that the men from Chicago have $1,000,000 with them, and the Rush Medical College is prepared to become part and parcel of the University of Chicago.

How long it will be before the scheme as now dreamed of by its promoters will be developed no man knows, but it is believed that within a comparatively few years Chicago will have eclipsed the world in respect to its facilities for successful study and research in medical and surgical science.

William Corry is Appointed His Assistant to "Perform the Active Duties of the Presidency."

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)

NEW YORK, June 30.—William Corry of Pittsburgh, president of the Carnegie Steel Company, was today made assistant to the president of the Carnegie Corporation. The formal announcement of Mr. Corry's designation as assistant to Charles M. Schwab, president of the Carnegie Corporation, was made today. The official announcement says: "In consequence of the continued ill health of the president, he has requested the active duties of the presidency, and at today's meeting the committee Mr. W. E. Corry, president of the Carnegie Steel Company, was appointed to that position."

Schwab was in conference with J. P. Morgan earlier in the day. The official approval is believed to have the cordial approval of President Schwab.

plaintiff for the title to the grade upon the payment to the county of $200, the amount due on taxes. Williams yesterday paid this amount to the Treasurer. The Salt Lake route, under a stipulation made two years ago, forfeited $200 which it had paid to the County Treasurer. This action wipes out the litigation, and in the words of Attorney Whittemore as he stepped off the train this afternoon: "The Salt Lake route has burned its bridge behind it."

For days past the San Pedro road has had a party of civil engineers making surveys and soundings of the bottom and shore of the great Salt Lake near Black Rock and Garfield, about twenty miles west of the city. The object of this work has been kept secret until today, when it was ascertained that the purpose is to build a new and more pavilion, similar to the immense buildings erected at Saltair by the Mormon Church some twelve or fourteen years ago. It is understood that active work will begin just as soon as the plans can be passed upon by the county board of supervisors. In addition to the big pavilion that will be built upon piling directly over the water, a great sanitarium and hotel, it is also claimed, will be erected. The cost has not been stated, but the expense will be enormous, and it is believed will crowd close to $1,000,000.

ALL-AROUND RATE WAR.

ROCK ISLAND FORCING IT.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All-around rate war on the roads in the Western Passenger Association is imminent. Trouble is brewing over the exclusion of the Rock Island from the meeting of the Interchangeable Mileage Bureau line held yesterday at St. Louis. The disavowal of the credentials form of interchangeable mileage.

The Rock Island protested today to the chairman of the association. The protest was entered in connection with the Rock Island's vote on the proposition submitted for giving effect to the absolute discontinuance of the 2000-mile stub ticket now on sale by individual roads. It is stated that the Rock Island, but not good for interchangeable mileage. It also provides for the discontinuance of credential form of interchangeable mileage and substitution thereof of a 2000-mile interchangeable ticket, good on the trunk line and similar to that now in use by Northern Michigan roads. The Rock Island voted against the adoption of the revised proposition, and its vote insured its defeat for the moment.

ARIZONA LINES.

ESPEE TO BUILD COOLHOUSE.

PHOENIX (Ariz.) June 30.—The City Council of Phoenix has at last assented to a proposition that has been before it for years and has granted to the Phoenix Railway right-of-way along Harrison street to the west line of First avenue. This brings the Southern Pacific connection well into the heart of the city, and gives it as good a direct line to the city as the Santa Fe, its competitor. Superintendent Bicknell of the Maricopa and Phoenix road states that his company will at once build a new passenger station at the corner of Jackson and Center streets. This company has already on hand enough steel to relay six miles of the track between Phoenix and Tempe. It is proposed to put the entire road in the best condition, and much higher speed may be made by its trains. The Glia bridge will practically be rebuilt and a new steel structure will span Salt River.

Trackage has been resumed by the Prescott and Eastern Railway beyond the development of the company. It has been experienced in securing enough steel, and the labor question has been somewhat vexed, as men are hard to get in Arizona during the warm season. The grade has been completed to the Glia River beyond Florence, a distance of about seventy-five miles from Phoenix.

The same interests that own the Prescott and Eastern Railway, namely, the Development Company of America, own an enormous tract of timber land in the Sierra Madre Mountains, in the State of Chihuahua, Mex. At one time it was understood that the timber land would be tapped by an extension of the Sierra Madre road, a line running into Mexico from El Paso. But the grades upon that road have been proven almost prohibitive, and now it is proposed to build a new railway system of the company, which for the present will terminate at Benson.

Near the same vicinity construction on the Nacozari Railway, the southern branch of the El Paso and Southwestern, is being pushed, though handicapped by an insufficient supply of lumber. Hundreds of Mexican laborers have been imported from the interior of the republic, but have been unable to serve as a feeder for the Southern Pacific, and would come into active competition with the El Paso and Southwestern system.

The freight traffic of the El Paso and Southwestern is worthy of a trunk line, and is limited only by the capacity of the rolling stock. Five new engines are in use, besides the former equipment, and still are not sufficient to handle all the mining, freight and outgoing cattle business. It has been announced that the Southern Pacific track from Tucson to Yuma is to be immediately sprinkled with oil and several hundreds of carloads of crude petroleum have been dispatched for the purpose.

The Southern Pacific system is credited with a kindly action at Sentinel station, in the southwestern part of Maricopa county. There the railroad company, in pure philanthropy, has bound itself to build a schoolhouse and put it in shape for the reception of pupils by the beginning of the next school term. Hereafter the nearest school was at Agua Caliente, fourteen miles distant.

Word from Clifton tells that the damage to the mining railroads has been entirely repaired. The cars are running on schedule time, and that the tramways are delivering their usual quantities of ore.

The Leland Narrow-Gauge Railroad is being constructed in Mojave county, a distance of eight miles from a group of mines to the mill. It is stated that it will later be continued to the Colorado River and Needles. It is the property of the Mojave Gold Mining Company.

LOSES US AND MEN.

D PRESS.—A.M.] Col. Rochford adds that the Abyssinians have effectively closed the Madagascari all the waiting places south of the Gerio-Gab-Gab, and he hopes they will soon be in contact with the British forces, and thus be able to operate in pursuit of the Mullah, who delayed in his movements by the fact that he is crossing a waterless part of the country.

ing to act in the case of Colorado strike, which are charged with settling the agreement made in settlement of the strike there and at Cripple Creek on March 21.

Notes have been posted by Manager of the Colorado Mill at Colorado City that wages will be reduced July 1 to the scale that was obtained from the strike. The men formerly received a minimum of $1.50 a day, and on April 1 were granted a minimum of $2.25 a day and eight hours, and there is every reason to believe the scale will not be accepted by the men.

The Standard Mills, it is charged, have not observed the oral agreement made for settlement of the strike, and trouble there is likely to be renewed.

Reach an Agreement.

NEW YORK, June 30.—At a conference between representatives of Clothing Trades Union with an aggregate membership of 40,000, and of the Clothing Manufacturers' Association, an agreement has been reached by which wages paid under a former agreement will be extended one year, and threatened friction over the wage question.

Organizing Against Boycott.

RICHMOND (Va.) June 30.—There have been no strike disturbances today. The merchants are organizing a movement to resist and break the boycott against them for riding on the strike.

KUPSTINA DISSOLVED.

Premier pledges the Government to see that the elections shall be free from coercion.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—A.M.] ELIZABET, June 30.—[By Atlantic City.] At the meeting of the Kupa today, Premier Avramovic announced that the assembly, specially summoned by the provisional government, June 11.

After reading the address the Premier asked the Kupa to elect a committee to draw up a constitution for the government, and added that the government had concluded that it was better to postpone all legislation until new elections had been held.

The Premier pledged the government to see that the elections were carried out with perfect freedom, so that the will of the people could be expressed in the elections.

The King has already promised that new cabinet shall be composed in accordance with the results of the elections.

WAR CRIES OF PRESS.

Japanese Journalists Yearn for Hostilities.

Complain of Conservative Policy of the Foreign Office.

Drubful of Help from England—Kurapatkin's Visit—Naval Maneuvers.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.]

VICTORIA (B. C.) June 30.—The steamer Aki Maru arrived here this afternoon from Yokohama, and brought news that an ominous tone pervails

the Japanese press. The Japan Gazette says in reviewing the journals, it is shown that the patience of the press is exhausted in regard to Russia in Manchuria. One paper says that a petition has been presented to the Japanese government requesting that it be advisable that Japan should go to war with Russia.

The petition, according to the Yokohama paper, is signed by nobles and a large number of prominent men.

Another paper complains that the policy of the Foreign Office is too subservient to the too cautious and dumb counsels of the elder statesmen, and does not fairly represent the sentiments of the people at large.

Still another writes on the resolutely patriotic spirit of the Japanese in connection with internal affairs, and the fact that their spirit has been drawn by the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

It admits that there may be some who deny the potency of that alliance, but claims that the Japanese nation as a whole is in perfect consonance with the alliance, which was established between Russia and Japan of Manchuria for Korea has been advanced, and a number of professors of the special University are said to have approached Baron Komura to protest against the proposition.

Other papers are taking up the question from various points of view, but all indicate a common sentiment: the Russian attitude, which seems to be deeper and more ominous character than ever before.

The Niroku prints a significant article in which it says: "We know that

Russia is pursuing the United States draw her sword in order to settle the dispute between the Anglo-Japanese alliance. We know also that the alliance is almost certain that England will not be able to resist in the face of the Russian attitude. Whatever disadvantages Japan may encounter, she and she alone will be compelled to push it to the last argument.

The article continues at length in advocacy of war with Russia.

The Russians are going on with their building operations at Young An Pho, irrespective of Korean protests. Communication with the Manchurian mainland is being maintained by the being built. Reports are also received that the Russians have secured concession to Jinjuke, a Japanese. The doublets arise as a result.

The Japanese papers comment at length regarding the visit of Gen.

Kuropatkin, Russian Minister of War.

The general comment is hopeful that his visit may bring about a better understanding regarding the Korean dispute. Nearly every paper in Japan draws much from the visit, and comment on the visit of the War Minister generally considered to have no political importance.

The Peking correspondent of Asahi

Shimbu wires at length regarding the visit of the Russian Minister of War.

Chargé d'affaires at Peking, Gen.

Prince Ching, while the British and Japanese ministers are not received.

M. Lesner, Russian Minister of War, to induce security in all matters relating to Manchuria, has arranged that all advice received from Manchuria officials by Chinese officials shall not be given to any clerk or subordinate for transmission.

The American warships Kentucky,

New Orleans, Helena and Oregon arrived at Tokyo on June 18. They stay ten days and then leave for Chefoo, where the maneuvers will commence at the beginning of the month.

Altogether fourteen men-of-war, three transports and two tenders are taking part in the maneuvers.

RUSSIA WILL RESIST IT.

Semi-Official Intimation of How the American Jewish Petition Will Be Received at St. Petersburg.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—[By

Atlantic Cable.] "Concerning the petition at Kishinev, no communication has been made to Russia by the United States on this subject. But, had such been received, Russia would naturally have known what to reply to such an attempt at interference in her internal affairs."

The foregoing note was issued by a semi-official news agency.

As a result of the petition presented by the deputation from the mercantile community of Kishinev, which waited on Finance Minister Witte June 28, asking for a moratorium for bills of exchange and other facilities to rehabilitate the credit of those who suffered from the recent economic crisis, the Bank at Kishinev has been authorized to discount the bills of Kishinev firms which were protested during April and May.

BEARS IN COTTON.

Terrific Onslaught Made on the Market at New Orleans for the Purpose of Breaking Brown's Corner.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS, June 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—The bears made a terrrible onslaught on the cotton market

this morning for the purpose of breaking W. P. Brown's corner. Prices began to crumble as the gong sounded at the opening, being down 16 and 17 points

on August and September and from 4

to 2 points down on the new crop month.

The bears are shipping cotton from Liverpool to New Orleans in an attempt to break the corner. One thousand bales arrived today and 1,000 more are due

on August and September and from 4

to 2 points down on the new crop month.

The bears received encouragement from New York and Liverpool, where of cotton prices declined. When the excitement was at its height, the bull leader suddenly entered the pit and stopped the slump by buying everything in sight. Crop-damage reports began to come in at this juncture, and the bull crowd worked the reports for all they were worth. All of the early losses were recovered and held until just before the close, when there was a slight easing off, due to profit-taking by the bulls. The day closed with Brown still master of the situation.

Every effort to cripple him has so far failed, and Carondelet street has become convinced that he has sufficient strength to buy every bale of cotton

on the American continent.

FLASHES FROM THE WIRES.

The radical wing of the revolutionary veterans at Havana have petitioned

Congress for the immediate appointment of a Congressional committee to investigate the validity of the soldiers' claims.

A plague of lice has visited the apple orchards in Orleans county, New York. If the lice are not kept under control, the apple crop of the county, valued at $1,000,000 will be ruined.

By an explosion of fireworks at Lake

Kuropatkin, Russian Minister of War,

store has been wrecked and Freddie

Alston, 4 years old, was badly burned and probably died.

The League of Nations, which is annually conferred by the University of Notre Dame, Ind., upon some Catholic who has deserved honor, has just been presented to Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore.

The congress of Russian millers has resulted in the formation of an association to promote the flag export trade. Ten of the larger firms have thus far joined the association.

Bernard Quinn, aged 74, killed his son, James M. Quinn, 25 years old, who was a student at the University of Notre Dame, Ind., Monday night. The father had been drinking and attacked the son, who used a small pocket-knife in defending himself. He has not been arrested.

keep his force intact—and was glad to be kept even during a short spell. Under conditions of a combination against him as if he were their enemy, who would depose him, he never met the demands of things entirely foreign to the matters of wages and hours, and if the demands are not complied with will quit him in a tight place and beat up men who are willing to help him out of the hole in exchange for a reasonable quantity of bread money without excessive conditions. Do you wonder that manufacturers have not expanded their facilities? It is strange that there are not large quantities of steel carried in stock? The lesson learned has been learned thoroughly. From this on there will be an era of labor-saving machinery, a reduction in the number of the crew, a putting on of "extra" men a few days each week in order to keep the men always applying for the same job, an output all ways in demand and nothing carried in stock, a condition of economy, close figuring, of heading, of fighting, of suffering with matter in a state of confusion.

BROWN CAST AWAY HONOR.

Alleged Slayer of Swensen Proceed a Villain.

Infatuated With Mexican Girl He Swore to Lie.

Foley's Investigation Confirms "The Times" Reports—A Suffering Wife.

For his infatuation with a Mexican girl, Newton Brown threw away honor, certainty, and if he never met the girl, he would have been a different man. Brown is now a villain. This is the burden of the report as made out by Mr. Foley.

It is true that Brown was desperately in love with Carmelita Gonzalez, as reported in "The Times," and the report has also been confirmed. Brown sold the mine so that he might have more money to spend on her. But in selling the mine he was obliged to swear to a lie. The Mexican law requires that a married man in signing over a deed to property must have the signature of his wife on the document.

Brown evaded this easily, he said that he was not married. But he did not stop there. When Attorney Foley confronted him he still insisted that he was not married. Brown said that the woman he had been living with here, Mrs. Brown, was not his wife, only his mistress. He said that he had been living with her for six years, but that no marriage bond existed.

LIKE A RAT TO WRECK. The malicious slander reached Los Angeles yesterday, reached Mrs. Brown wasted with worry in her house out on the Echo Park road, where she has been waiting for months, hoping to hear from her husband, and believing against all evidence during the past few weeks that her husband must be dead or would write to her, and entered her heart with the chill of hopelessness.

"I believed none of the reports," said Mrs. Brown last night, "because I felt sure of his love and as sure that he would write to me. I thought that he must be dead that some man of similar appearance was impersonating him."

"Now I cannot doubt," she said wearily, "that he must be dead now, but it's like death to me. I could have borne anything if he had not tried to take my good name. The snubbed 'He was a loving husband; we never had any quarrels, but to think that it should have come to this!'"

Since Swensen left Los Angeles for Mexico about the first of this month and no news came from her husband, Mrs. Brown has wasted away into an invalid. She produced the marriage certificate showing that she married Brown in San Bernardino, August 20, 1926. Judge Knox having performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Swensen had nothing to say when she read the report except that she would have the body of her husband exhumed as soon as possible and shipped to this city.

Attorney John Brown, brother of Newton and Max, George, and a detective employed by him to work up evidence in favor of the accused, are still in Altair. Brown will undoubtedly have defense when his case comes to trial, but Mrs. Brown stated last night that she would not assist.

SWENSEN'S LAST TRIP. "Anton Swensen left Nogales June 3 at 10 p.m. and left Santa Ana, the nearest railroad point to the mine, on June 12," reports Mr. Foley. "He was accompanied by Carlos Joffrey, a young man from Nogales, who acted as interpreter. They slept in a gulch the night of the 10th, and reached the mine at 6 o'clock June 11, finding no one there, started for Altair. While en route, Joffrey, who had complained all night of not feeling well, grew rapidly worse, and a high fever set in. Swensen concluded to take him home immediately. When they reached Altair, Swensen found Brown and commiserated with him the condition of the interpreter, asked Brown to go with him to Nogales, and in the hearing of this interpreter, Swensen said: 'We can talk our money matters over at Nogales.' Brown then procured a saddle horse, and went to Santa Ana. En route Brown told Swensen that the mine was looking fine, and that it was more valuable than he at first supposed, and that Swensen's interest was well worth all the money he had put into it."

The next day Swensen saw Brown, but the latter absolutely refused to go to Nogales with him. He acted a little disreputable about it after having promised to go. So Swensen then went to Nogales to see another interpreter, which he did, in the person of Alejandro Suarez, the book-keeper for Tamon Vasquez, the Nogales merchant.

On Monday, June 15, they again started for the mine, and Swensen, having heard a rumor relative to Brown's treachery, talked with Carlos Joffrey, a Mexican agent, and made an appointment to meet him on Wednesday, June 17, at Altair, which was some thirty miles from the mine.

Swensen and Alejandro slept all night at Santa Ana, and Brown awakened them the next morning to tell them that the rig was all ready to take spring wagon with one and a half saddle horse which he had used leaving Altair. The three men took turns about the trip, and to provide food for their meal, the men shot jack rabbits and turned the gun over to Alejandro. Then Brown late in the afternoon took the gun and fired it many times, killing four or five jacks.

THE KILLING. Then it told how Brown shot Swensen. When darkness had fallen Brown thought he saw a jackrabbit, or said that he did, and blazed away into the gun in hand, to see what execution had done, if any. There was no dead wagon and sat on a cot they were taking to the mine.

Report continues: "This time Brown (so he told me) took the rig in his right hand, and picking up the same hand, his left hand being free, he claimed to be sitting with his left side to Swensen's back, and, of course, immediately behind Swensen—the interpreter Alejandro sitting on the right of Swensen in the seat, and driving. Ten minutes after Brown got in the wagon the last time, he said 'Here we go,' and started to get up, and Swensen said to the driver 'stop.'

"While he was yet articulating the word the gun was discharged, and the entire charge entered Swensen's neck, just below the ear, and blew his brains through the top of his head, and he fell over on the driver's dead."

Brown spoke first, and to the driver, saying, 'What has happened, Alejandro?' The interpreter was so frightened that he jumped from the wagon screaming: 'Judge! Police! Murder!'

Whereupon a Mexican policeman came out and arrested Brown, and dispatched a peon for the judge of Altair, a couple of blocks away. When the judge came, it is a deed to a half interest in a mine from the prisoner. You will please read that document before the prisoner and myself, so there can be no question about it." So the judge read the agreement from Brown, giving him a half interest in the San Augustin copper mine, and then Alejandro was detained by the authorities as a witness.

"The next morning they viewed the remains of Swensen, and gave testimony before the civil authorities relative to the death, after which the body of Mr. Swensen was buried in the cemetery back of the church at Altair."

Swensen (a banker of Altair) asked Brown in the presence of O'Keefe if any one else had an interest in the mine, and if Brown was married, and under Mexican laws the signature of the wife is necessary to a valid deed, if the grantor be a married man.

WANTED TO MARRY. "Brown unhesitatingly replied that he owned the mine exclusively, and further, that he was not a married man. The truthfulness of the latter statement, impressed Swensen, for the padre had just told him that Brown had requested his services a priest to perform a marriage ceremony, and he wanted to marry Carmelita Gonzalez."

"Brown was tried and acquitted before a judge of the first instance, the court holding that the shooting was accidental, as told in a special dispatch to The Times the American colony became suspicious, took the matter up, and the result was an order from the governor of Sonora that Brown should be rearrested. 'It is almost certain,' says Mr. Foley, that the decision of Judge Rendon (the one who acquitted Brown) will be reversed, and either a new trial ordered, or the tribunal will decide the case."

"I asked Brown why he testified, in court, and why he told O'Keefe to whom he sold the mine, and Swensen that he was not a married man, and he replied, 'Because it is the truth. I am not married. It is true I have lived with the woman for six years in Los Angeles, but I never married her.'"

"He then denied that he applied to the padre for permission to marry Carmelita Gonzalez, but the padre says differently. "I was drawn and drawn on Swensen at various times for money aggregating $100,000, which Brown claimed to have been used to develop the mine, but as a matter of fact, less than $100,000 was used for that purpose, and the rest was spent in riotous living, and on Carmelita Gonzalez. On the road from Altair to Altair, Con O'Keefe found several cards stuck on branches of the tree reading, 'Carmelita Gonzalez and I rested under this tree,' and again, 'I told Carmelita Gonzalez that I loved her while we rested here.' I talked with dozens who claimed that it was a notorious fact that he was in love with her. I cannot say positively in justice to Brown, that he deliberately murdered Swensen, but many facts point to a motive."

the middle of a bunch of men, that it lay in an almost unpropitious position. It was the work of but a moment to kick the ball sharply to its resting place toward the hole. He ran back to the top and the crowd around the hole.

"You're dead, two feet from the hole," Mr. Bradbury. It's a clinch for me. Then the rickies, or the nerves, or something or other, got to work. Bradbury again, for he sliced his drive and the ball fell within a hundred yards of the green. He made a beautiful putt, but he missed, however, with his next stroke and his ball lay with that of his companion.

But the game was over, for the putted in with his next stunt, winning the match by one; then he went to Bradbury and held him by the hand.

"Hard luck, old man," he said. "You had a luck next time."

But Bradbury could not say a word. He was too busy shaking under his breath, and snatching his bag from the caddy he stood by.

"Here, Scotty," called Greyson, as club-brasher moved away. "here's a letter for you. I feel sure it will be a good one."

He took the size of which made Bradbury's mouth eyes sparkle.

As the two caddies walked back to the clubhouse they talked over the game just finished, and after getting a promise of absolute secrecy Scotty revealed to his companion the contents of the letter.

"It wasn't 'cause Mr. Greyson tips me that I monkeykicked you," he said. "In justification of this action, 'though he is the best of the two, and I hope he wins," said Miss Van Zandt. "I would have bet on Bradbury."

"Either, even if he did hit me twice when I laughed at his account I saw him fizzle twice when he was out of the hole. I bet he lifted his ball out of a cupie when he thought no one was

And, anyway," he added, con-

BESIEGED BY FOUR LIONS.

Thrilling Experience of Old Lordsburg Mountaineer.

Savage Brutes Held Him Captive Two Days and Nights.

Burro Driven Into Cabin With Man—Took Place in Los Angeles County.

After having been beleaguered for two days and two nights by savage brutes in the upper San Gabriel country, penned in his shack by four mountain lions, forced to see to civilization to escape the bloodthirsty maw of the tawny devil that hungered for the flesh of himself and his faithful burro, "Al Borak," J. R. Camp, more dead than alive, rode into Lordsburg Monday in a pitiful state of exhaustion, and at things that a burro understands as well as a man and a mountain lion is one of them. Camp congratulated himself on his escape, but prematurely, as he crossed the slight ridge at the end of the flat, a long drawn, piercing screech was heard from the trail behind; the brutes had discovered his departure and were in hot pursuit.

Realizing his peril, and that safety lay only in beating the lions to civilization, Camp accepted the hard terms and a race for life began that probably has no parallel in local history. Terrified beyond control, the little burro for once in his life galloped like a racehorse; only by great luck could Camp retain his seat. One false step would have hurled him to almost as bad a death as any the lions could give, but he had no time to count the cost of his venture for life. Never before and probably never again will the descent from Brown's Flats be made in such time as Camp made it Monday. When he reached Lordsburg he was exhausted. A night's rest straightened the man out wonderfully, and yesterday morning Camp loaded his burro with ammunition and rifles until he looked like a walking arsenal, and began his return trip, determined to thin out the lion crop of Brown's Flats if it presents itself again.

Today four Lordsburg sportsmen, headed by Jim Douglas, will leave for the flats prepared to assist Camp in his good work.

BROWN'S FLATS—CAMP AND HIS BURRO DRIVEN BY THE MOUNTAIN LIONS.

ter restoratives had been applied, he told a thrilling tale of the mountains. No other evidence of the truth of his story was required than his condition. A glance at the man's haggard features, and the quivering, perspiring flanks of the tiny burro that bore him into safety—that was enough.

Mr. Camp lives at Brown's Flats in the summer and takes care of a few hunters who come into that section of the mountains after deer and trout; in the winter he usually stays below, but several weeks past, he has been maintaining up his place, for the opening of the deer season, but he little thought he was to be the first living thing hunted in that section this season, and that a quartette of mountain lions were to be the pursuers.

For a month numerous wildcats and an occasional panther have made the night intolerable in Camp's vicinity with their demoniac howlings. Nothing in the wide world compares more to make a man realize his loneliness than the long drawn out scream, of the California cat at midnight—an unearthly sound like the dying screech of a woman in agony. But not until last Friday did Camp have any more tangible evidence of "varminting" than the occasional sight of their tracks and his disturbed slumbers. On that day, he was cutting away some brush on the trail near his cabin, when he heard a twig snap in front of him; fancied he detected the soft pat of cushioned feet, and looking up, he beheld a huge lion right in the center of the trail, switching its tail menacingly, growling deeply, and regarding him with a truculent glare that meant hunger and a desire to satisfy it. Camp was struck dumb with terror, instinctively his hand sought the hip pocket, in which reposed a small revolver.

As he drew it, another lion walked out of the brush, and behind it were two smaller, possibly cubs. The lion was too much for the overstrained nerves of Camp. Blazing blindly away with the popgun in his hand, he created a momentary diversion that allowed him to reach his cabin door. Rushing inside, he barred the door and reloaded his revolver, determined to frighten away the brutes if possible. As he looked out he saw his faithful burro, "Al Borak," snorting and plunging at his tether, one of the tawny brutes having already begun to sneak up on him. With a wild plunge the burro broke loose and rushed for shelter, one of the lions after him. Camp opened the door just in time to admit the terrorized little fellow, who shot in as if launched from a catapult.

Throwing his weight against the door and barring it again, Camp sat down to recover his scattered wits and determine on some plan of action. He had plenty of provisions and decided to remain quiet for a time, hoping the lions would go away. Knowing they are usually cowardly brutes, Camp was at a loss to account for their daring action except on the theory that if he might be a pair with their cubs. He made the burro comfortable, and was glad of his company, and then took a look to see if the brutes were still there. They were watching. He had but little ammunition, and determined to husband it.

The perverse devilry of those lions was astounding. They refused to vacate; they knew their game was snared in a trap of his own making and right in the brush outside Camp's enclosure the quartet of big cats was in sight and Sunday at least one was in sight and Camp decided to lay low. Saturday night was a night of horrors. Once, a scorching sound in the roof made by a wood rat would start the cold perspiration on the terrified man's brow; every minute he expected one of the huge forms would launch itself against the frail door and burst it in; the expected never came, but he was killed accidentally.

Monday morning Camp cautiously peered out. The coast seemed to be clear and he hurriedly saddled up "Al Borak," mounted him and turned the honest little beast toward civilization. He needed no urging. There are some

HELPED CELEBRATE OUR FIRST FOURTH.

SAW FLAG RAISED FIFTY-FOUR YEARS AGO.

W. O. Baxter, Veteran of Mexican War, Participated in Patriotic Ceremonies on Fort Hill, When City Was an Adobe Village.

One of the men who participated in the first Fourth of July celebration in California is now living in Santa Monica. He is W. O. Baxter, a veteran of the Mexican War. The celebration took place in Los Angeles in 1847 when the Stars and Stripes were raised with ceremony on Fort Hill under orders of Col. Jonathan D. Sloat, then commanding the First New York Volunteers of the Mexican War, which regiment was then in Los Angeles. Mr. Baxter served in Co. E, Capt. Taylor.

The veteran of that historic incident passed his seventy-sixth birthday last January, but he looks nearly two decades younger. "Los Angeles at that time," he says, "was an adobe town, and I returned fourteen years afterward the town appeared unchanged. As far as I know, I am the only one of that regiment now alive."

Mr. Baxter also has the distinction of being the oldest resident now living in Santa Monica. He drove to that seaside town in February, 1876, and was employed in connection with the building of the first wharf there. The brig Tanager brought the material for that pier the same month. No lots were sold till the 15th of the following July, when a steamer brought a large number of investors from San Francisco and elsewhere along the coast to attend the sale. There were $70,000 worth of lots sold within a few hours.

Coroner Trout took charge of the remains, which were horribly mangled, and sent them to Broderick Bros. morgue, where an inquest will be held this morning. The deceased had re-

ESTEEMED LAWYER WAS JAMES BURDETT.

DIED AFTER SHORT ILLNESS OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Attorney for Several Corporations. Never Recovered from the Death of His Wife—Bar Association Will Take Action Today.

"An exceedingly fine, clean fellow went out when James Burdett died."

It was Henry O'Melveny who said that yesterday, speaking of the untimely death of one of the best lawyers at the bar.

Burdett died of Bright's disease Monday evening at 9:30 o'clock, and was not in his bed long. He was 45 years old, having been born in Canada in 1858. After graduating from the law school of the University of Toronto, he came immediately to Los Angeles, nineteen years ago.

Those who knew him best say that he seemed not to care whether he lived or died after the death of his wife two years ago. In the last few days of his life, he kept saying that he wanted to die.

A while back, one of the lawyers met him on the streets and commented on the fact that he looked pulled down and in a bad way.

Burdett replied that the doctors had told him that morning that he had acute Bright's disease.

"But," he said, "I don't believe there's anything in it; anyhow, I am going on just the same."

And he did; went on with his practice in just the same way.

Burdett had a very good law business, and was regarded as a good, practical, honest lawyer.

He was attorney for several corporations, and was at one time the champion of the residence belt in the hills against the encroachments of the oil derricks.

He was never the sort of lawyer who chased around getting his cases into the papers and his name in print, but he was always very kind to the reporters and knew a "story" when he saw it.

He came here from Toronto, Canada, and struck out for himself. As Mr. O'Melveny said yesterday: "Burdett fought it out alone, and made his way to the top."

He arrived here in 1884 and in 1890, married Miss Lillian Fellows, the daughter of Dr. Isaac Fellows, at one time a leading homeopathic physician of this city. Miss Fellows was well known as a beautiful woman who could sing.

"His was an ideal character," said Mrs. Peters last night in her elegant home at No. 1726 W. First street, where Mr. Burdett died. "His love for Lillian was so great that I believe he really died of a broken heart."

When Mrs. Burdett died, all the life seemed to be taken out of him. By sheer will-power he kept himself

KILLED BY SWITCH ENGINE.

Charles Hallquist Ends a Long Spree and His Life Under the Wheels of a Locomotive Near River Station.

While wandering through the Southern Pacific yards in the vicinity of River Station, unable to properly care for himself because he had been on a drunken spree for weeks, Charles Hallquist, a tailor, was run down by a switch engine and almost instantly killed. He was about 42 years of age and had until recently been employed by M. Cohn, who has a tailoring establishment in the Hollenbeck Hotel block but for nearly two weeks he had been drunk and unable to care for himself or do his work. Monday night he applied to his employer for money and was told to get sober and instead of giving him money Cohn handed him a Turkish bath ticket and had him taken to a bath-house, hoping thereby to sober him. While there he staggered against a coil of steam pipes and burned himself severely. He then left the place without taking a bath.

Yesterday afternoon he appeared at River Station and made inquiries as to the time of departure of an east-bound freight train. He was very drunk and when he received the information he wandered into the freight yards. Several times the railroad men ordered him away and more than once they prevented his being struck by moving freight cars. Without heed to the warnings he continued to walk across the tracks and was finally struck by a switch engine and killed. Whether his death was the result of accident or was self-destruction may never be known, but it is believed that he was killed accidentally.

Coroner Trout took charge of the remains, which were horribly mangled, and sent them to Broderick Bros. morgue, where an inquest will be held this morning. The deceased had re-

COFFEE CLUB HAS PROBLEM.

Shall Tobacco be Excluded from the Rooms?

All Will be in Readiness by Middle of August.

Similar Coffee Houses to Be Established in Redlands, Bakersfield and Santa Anna.

On August 15 a movement that originated a year ago with the Christian Endeavor Union is to see its first aim attained by the opening, at No. 113 East Second street, of the pioneer coffee house of the Los Angeles Coffee Club Association. Long and faithfully have its founders labored to bring about the establishment of the initial "temperance saloon" in the city, and arrangements are now almost completed for opening its doors.

The club is to be patterned after that of San Jose, which, from a meager beginning, has become a stable and popular institution, supporting several branches.

The room to be fitted up on East Second street, is 2250 feet, the main part to be furnished as a comfortable reading and lounging quarters, while one side will be occupied by a lunch counter, where hot coffee and light articles of diet will be sold at all hours for a nominal price. The heaviest article on the bill of fare will be baked beans, and few, if any, of the dishes will sell for more than five cents. The lunch can conveniently be served in the club-room proper, as no actual cooking will be done at the counter.

August 1, Ernest Fox, manager of the San Jose coffee house, and of several others in the State, will come to Los Angeles to aid the local association to raise the last few dollars necessary to lay final plans, and to manage the club temporarily and put it on a self-supporting basis.

The purpose of the coffee club is to provide a social resort for men of all classes where they may find comfort and refreshment during idle hours without the temptations of some place where intoxicating liquors are sold and gaming allowed. Remembering that it is especially hoped to attract young men from the comforts of a saloon to similar comforts without moral dangers, the serious problem of whether smoking shall be allowed on the premises is under consideration by the board of directors. The members apparently are of one mind on the subject. It is easily seen that to prohibit the use of tobacco on the club premises will tend to the attractiveness of the place in the opinion of some young men that the club is intended to attract, for many who have an idle moment to spend in a room of reading or refreshment seek a spot where they can also enjoy a smoke.

The movement for the establishment of a coffee club was started by the Christian Endeavor Union, from which body a committee was appointed to incorporate the Los Angeles Coffee Club Association. The association is now regularly incorporated, with the following officers: Paul C. Brown, president; Leon V. Shaw, vice-president; Francis D. R. Moore, secretary; Edward E. Bacon, financial secretary; R. W. Bailey, corresponding secretary; George W. Parsons, treasurer. The directors are E. E. Bacon, R. W. Bailey, P. C. Brown, O. D. Conrey, C. A. Faithful, W. R. Harper, F. H. Moore, J. O. Smith. The office of the association is at No. 207 Tajo building.

The association has raised $300 through the efforts of Christian Endeavorers among the churches, without an appeal to the business public. It is desired to have not less than $1000 pledged by August 15, and a plan is to be inaugurated by Ernest Fox upon its arrival here for raising the needed $400. Mr. Fox started the San Diego and Petaluma coffee clubs, and lately took hold of the one established in Oakland.

Birds Killed for Fashion.

EFFORTS TO PROTECT THEM.

PERSECUTED DENIZERS OF LAKE AND RIVER SLAUGHTERED FOR WOMAN'S HEAD-MILLINERY MERCHANTS' PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION ENLISTED IN THEIR DEFENSE.

By Edward B. Clark.

(Associate member American Ornithologists' Union, author of "Birds of Lake and River," etc.)

It is something much more than passing strange that the family of birds at once the most beautiful, the most graceful and the most innocent of all feathered creatures should be the one that man, or better, woman, has chosen as a shining mark for death.

Stand upon the shore of the Atlantic and, hovering upon light wing above the waves, you will see a gull feathered in delicate pearl gray with wing tips of black and white. Stand upon the shore of one of the great lakes, and the same bird will be found

It would be at home if man, as happily now he will, would but allow it to domesticate itself. The government biological survey is this summer endeavoring to locate the nesting colonies of the black tern in order that special protection may be thrown about them during their homesteading season. There is existing a colony of these birds close to the city of Chicago. Information of their whereabouts has been given to those interested in securing their protection, but the fear that annihilation of the colony would be invited by publicly disclosing its exact whereabouts must be the accepted reason for not giving here the specific location.

There are few sights in nature more beautiful than the view of a nesting colony of black terns, as the old birds glide backward and forward, turning as lightly as feathers of dove their nests, lying at the base of the bending flags. The person who called dancelike poetry of motion never saw the flight of this light-winged bird of the marsh-land. The nest of the black tern is a curiosity. It frequently is placed in shallow water upon a bed of floating rushes. The bird literally rides upon a raft while keeping warm its eggs.

TERNS EASILY SLAUGHTERED.

The black tern has been in demand for millinery purposes that a man with knowledge of the nesting place of a colony in his head and with a shotgun in his hand has been able to make a month's wages in a day's shooting. There is something absolutely senseless about the method of killing the terns. The market hunter seeks out the nesting place, flushes the birds from their nests, and while they hover about his head, uttering cries of fear and distress, he belittles the necessity for active work.

Here is an answer to such doubters. It is only one case among hundreds, and it is far from being the most flagrant of those reported. A man named Small—something in a name, possibly—shot gulls and terns for the market from October 1 to October 7, last year. In the seven days he killed 255 birds. The selling price was 12½ cents for each victim. Small's week's work of slaughter brought him in something over $300. Little wonder is it that this man and others like him hate to have the law interfere with their shooting.

The movement for the protection of the birds along the Atlantic has started a similar movement on the great lakes, along the coast of California. Many of the gulls and terns breed in the islands of northern Lake Michigan and on the islands and along the shores of Hudson and Superior. At present moral suasion rather than money is being used in the western territory. It is said, incidentally, perhaps, upon human nature that the experience of the bird protectors has shown that money, cash down at that has been more effective in saving the birds than an appeal to the sympathies of men and women.

When the day comes that sees no free wild bird riding on tireless pinions above the lashing waves of lake and ocean, the waterside for him who seeks it in the love of nature will have lost much of its present charm.

EDWARD B. CLARK.

A solution of the servant girl problem of interest to mistresses and maids alike has been worked out in Cincinnati during the past winter. It is explained by Charles Frederic Ginter, D.D., in his article to appear in The Times tomorrow.

THE BLACK TERN, NEST, YOUNG AND ROOK.

An effort is being made to locate the inland nesting colonies of these birds, with a view to their protection from millinery market hunters.

pick-up of its daily bread from the face of the fresh water. Float in your canoe with the current of the Mississippi and your gray-clad friend of the Atlantic and the lakes will bear you gentle company. Journey across the great plains and the mountains and look toward the Golden Gate, and on the surface of the bay waters will fall the shadow of the same graceful wing.

The bird which has seemingly followed you across the continent is the herring gull, scientifically called Larus argentatus. Smithsonian. Its hawk is coextensive with the United States, and with its fellow-gulls and terns it is the bird against which the hand of man, and if one may so put it, the head of woman, have been raised for generations. The gulls and terns, on account of their beauty and the ease with which they are approached and killed, have been the mark for the milliner's agents ever since fashion dictated the wearing of feathers.

SAVED FROM FASHION'S CLUTCH.

The gulls and terns are flying today beneath a brighter sky. Within the month, through the efforts of the bird protection committee of the American Ornithologists' Union and the New York State Audubon Society, the great Millinery Merchants' Protective Association of New York has pledged itself to cease dealing in these "soft-breasted birds of the sea."

Today, the Milliners' Association of the West is in correspondence with the Chicago directors of the Illinois Audubon Society, with a view of entering into the same agreement for the West that its brother association has signed for the East. This action means that a great family of beautiful floating rushes. The bird literally rides upon a raft while keeping warm its eggs.

TERNS EASILY SLAUGHTERED.

The black tern has been in demand for millinery purposes that a man with knowledge of the nesting place of a colony in his head and with a shotgun in his hand has been able to make a month's wages in a day's shooting. There is something absolutely senseless about the method of killing the terns. The market hunter seeks out the nesting place, flushes the birds from their nests, and while they hover about his head, uttering cries of fear and distress, he belittles the necessity for active work.

Here is an answer to such doubters. It is only one case among hundreds, and it is far from being the most flagrant of those reported. A man named Small—something in a name, possibly—shot gulls and terns for the market from October 1 to October 7, last year. In the seven days he killed 255 birds. The selling price was 12½ cents for each victim. Small's week's work of slaughter brought him in something over $300. Little wonder is it that this man and others like him hate to have the law interfere with their shooting.

The movement for the protection of the birds along the Atlantic has started a similar movement on the great lakes, along the coast of California. Many of the gulls and terns breed in the islands of northern Lake Michigan and on the islands and along the shores of Hudson and Superior. At present moral suasion rather than money is being used in the western territory. It is said, incidentally, perhaps, upon human nature that the experience of the bird protectors has shown that money, cash down at that has been more effective in saving the birds than an appeal to the sympathies of men and women.

When the day comes that sees no free wild bird riding on tireless pinions above the lashing waves of lake and ocean, the waterside for him who seeks it in the love of nature will have lost much of its present charm.

EDWARD B. CLARK.

A solution of the servant girl problem of interest to mistresses and maids alike has been worked out in Cincinnati during the past winter. It is explained by Charles Frederic Ginter, D.D., in his article to appear in The Times tomorrow.

THE BLACK TERN, NEST, YOUNG AND ROOK.

An effort is being made to locate the inland nesting colonies of these birds, with a view to their protection from millinery market hunters.

ful birds doubtless will be saved from the extinction which it was feared was imminent. The public little knows the fight it was a fight, nothing less—that was waged for years before the men who could claim the cause of the innocent bird took a hand in the fight and put himself at the head of the little band of bird partisans. The men who came to the conflict first to overthrow the tyrant were called dreamers and "old women" but the blows they struck soon knocked the birds from the heads of their antagonists.

THE BLACK TERN.

The gulls and terns perhaps best known to the people of the United States are the herring gull already named, Bonaparte's gull (Larus philadelphia), Wilson's tern (Sterna bergii) and the black tern (Sterna bergii). A sum of money known as the Thayer fund is the benefit of the Atlantic Coast, and the gulls and terns upon their breeding islands along the Atlantic Coast.

The black tern, however, gets little of the benefit of this protection, for it is largely in the marshes of the land. This beautiful bird, with its iridescent black, which takes on an iridescent blue in the sunshine, has been shot so ruthlessly that hundreds of its former haunts know it no more. Like the herring and the Bonaparte gulls, it is at home practically in all parts of temperate North America, or ican Ornithologists' Union, a small amount of money has been made to do large service. It takes but a moment to show how badly this service is needed. A year or two ago, summer residents of the islands lying south-east of Massachusetts, upon returning to the mainland in the autumn, reported that the gull and tern hunters had swarmed over the islands and had shot nearly every one of the nesting birds, in thousands of instances leaving the young in the nests to die of slow starvation.

CRUELTY OF BIRD HUNTERS.

Another story was told by these returned summer residents of the islands. They said that in many cases the birds would fall wounded before the shots of the market hunters, and being tossed to the beach to linger for awhile and to die in agony. It was shown that in some cases where the birds had been but slightly wounded they had managed to survive even though tearing away from the islands there were wingless birds picking up their lives, which would be theirs only until the winter came and froze out their innocent lives. The gulls whose wings were torn off were those whose body plumage was in too poor a condition for the market.

There was an investigation of these stories of horror cruelties, and they were found to be true. If an additional spur were needed to quicken the movement for the protection of the gulls and terns, it was found in

The Phenomenal Success Of the Great Refreshment Sale

Is due not only to the remarkably low prices, but to the purity, quality and excellence of the goods as well. The stocks of A. Paradis and the California Mercantile Company are known by many to be of the utmost reliability. Those who are not acquainted with the fact by experience are invited to sample the goods and be convinced. We guarantee every drop to be pure and unadulterated. If you have not secured all you need for several months to come, you had better do so at once, as the sale cannot last much longer.

WESLEYANS' CELEBRATION.

Methodists Eulogize Their Patron Saint.

Two Hundredth Anniversary of John Wesley's Birth.

Addresses by Bishop Hamilton and Other Eloquent Ministers. Attendance not Large.

The Methodists made a demonstration yesterday in honor of John Wesley. The meetings began in Simpson Auditorium at 9 o'clock in the morning, presided over by Rev. Dr. George W. White of Pomona.

It was termed the "John Wesley Bicentennial Celebration," and having extended through the day, closed last night with an address by Bishop John W. Hamilton.

Dr. White opened the celebration by appropriately stating its scope, and that, notwithstanding the great number of Methodists in the city, the congregation was not large. In fact, last night, though the attraction was the greatest possible to every member of the denomination, there were not as many people present as would make a good congregation in a much smaller house than Simpson Auditorium.

BISHOP HAMILTON'S TALK.

If Bishop Hamilton was ever in his element it was last night when he talked of "Wesley, the Organizer." He said, however, that he did not come to some years in the pulpit of another denomination. There were many Methodists present yesterday who probably had never heard him preach. His sermon was an eloquent and orthodox exposition which elicited many "amens" and "hanks the Lord." These are some of his epigrammatic utterances:

"I say it is a sin for a man to be habitually gloomy and sad in his Christian life.

"Peace is like a mighty river flowing through the land, bringing beauty to the soul wherever it flows. Peace is a necessary fruit of the spirit.

"If you are a growing, snapping, snoring Christian, you've overlooked one of the required fruits of the spirit.

"Multitudes of people will be great Christians when in the current, but when they have to stand alone it is quite another thing. They are the now hot now cold, now on now off type of Christians."

Dr. Cherrington's sermon was a strong and emotional argument in support of the strict demands for godliness laid down by John Wesley. He declared that the argument of Wesley that whatever was a Christian privilege was a Christian duty was the head and front of his offending that caused the English people to be shocked.

A season of testimony followed the address of Dr. Cherrington and then Rev. Dr. W. P. Ferguson of San Diego delivered an address upon the subject of "Wesley the Preacher."

MORNING SERVICES.

The first sermon of the day was delivered by Rev. Dr. A. W. Lamport of Pasadena, who is a powerful preacher. He had for his subject, "The Witness of the Spirit," and preached a strong evangelistic sermon.

The subject of "Wesley, the Man," was assigned to Rev. Dr. Hugh E. Walker, pastor of Immanuel Presbyterian Church. Had the general doctor been a full-fledged Methodist, the friends of the great man whose anniversary they were celebrating could not have heard warmer words for the man than were spoken by Dr. Walker.

He said that Wesley, however, was better loved now than when he was in the midst of his life-work. He related a number of anecdotes of Wesley which proved very entertaining, and

FORGER AND MOTHER CONDUCT DEFENSE.

SMITH GUILTY ON ONE COUNT IN SAN DIEGO.

Endeavors to Show Insane Tendencies and Lean on "Dope" in Extenuation. Five Cases Waiting in Los Angeles and Santa Barbara.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.

SAN DIEGO, June 30.—Walter C. Smith of Los Angeles, who poses as a "dope" fiend, and who is charged with passing a large number of bogus checks in Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, San Bernardino, Redlands and this city, was found guilty on one of the complaints in the Justice's Court this afternoon. Assisted by his mother, the young man conducted his own defense, endeavoring to show to the court that he had insane tendencies, and was the victim of "dope."

This evening there will be a very near approach of the moon to the planet Mars. The nearest contact, for it will be almost a real contact, will be about 5 o'clock in the evening; so that they should be looked for as soon after sunset as it is possible to see them and they will then be very near together. It is to be hoped the skies will be clear enough for us to see them. An occasion like this is not only interesting in itself, but affords an opportunity for testing our knowledge as to the direction in which the heavenly bodies move. Let any one notice how far to the left of Mars the moon will be the next night, and perhaps he will be surprised to find that though the moon seems to cross the sky from east to west, it is really always moving toward the east.

There will be another pretty sight in the same part of the sky almost, on Sunday night, but further to the north and west. Everybody must know Venus—she has been for weeks so bright and conspicuous in our southwestern sky. She is now passing under the Corona Leonis in the constellation Leo. We may think of the Corona as a hunter's cap with the bright star Regulus marking the tip, and then think of Venus, the great huntress, trying to put it on. She will not, however, quite succeed, for on Sunday evening she will be her close to Regulus, the last star in the cap, and then she will soon leave the whole group behind. This conjunction of the bright planet and the fixed star is worth watching, for it is not often we see two such bright stars so near together. Those who know the Corona Leonis as the sickle will notice that Regulus is the star which forms the end of the handle.

After passing Regulus, Venus will seem to be in a fair way to overtake Mars, and will gain upon him very considerably till about the end of July. After that she will begin to lag behind, and will soon be lost to us in the rays of the sun, passing between us and the sun on September 15.

RAYN CLIMATE POTPOURRI.

The District Attorney reports that there is an epidemic of crime in the county. Although the list was disposed of last week, there are now being ten felony cases in the County Jail. It is reported that there is a deal on between Ralph Granger and U. S. Grant. The latter will secure Granger's Brooklyn property in exchange for some of his holdings in San Diego. One estimate of the value of Grant's San Diego holdings places them at $500,000.

J. Kindeman, a deputy pound keeper, has been held under arrest for accepting a bribe, the conditions of which were that the owner of a goat should not be asked to pay toll to the city. The pound keeper has confessed his sin.

The Fourth of July parade committee has decided not to withdraw the Spanish bull fighters from the parade. As yet the W.C.T.U. has not withdrawn its floats.

The city Board of Education has made arrangements to circulate petitions for the formation of a high school district, in order that the city may draw its share of State funds. It is necessary to secure 1200 signatures on the petitions, and the work will be completed before Monday evening.

The 1933 convention of the recent Christian Endeavor convention reports all bills paid and a balance of $48 in the treasury.

Ralph Granger has bought the Cuyamaca Clubhouse property and the Parrott carriage factory property on Fourth and F, the consideration being $50,000.

BIG CORONADO JEWELRY.

TENT CITY (Coronado) June 30.—The landing of a 24-pound Jewish fish by I. P. Darling was the talk of the hotel and camp yesterday. When the launch May steamed away for the Coronado Islands Mr. Darling said that he would bring back the largest fish of the year. The party included Mr. and Mrs. Darling, Mrs. D. E. Easterbrook, Miss Carpenter, Miss De Yoe and Rev. Alexander McGiffin.

Those who went into camp yesterday included E. L. Shepherd, Pasadena; Mrs. Capt. Smith, San Bernardino; P. J. Townsend, Palo Alto; H. B. Torrey, Berkeley; Miss Mary Waterman, Miss Mamie Moulton, Miss Frankie Yarnall, Mrs. F. G. Spain, Houston, Tex.; R. L. Duke and family, Los Angeles; F. W. Swanfield, Los Angeles; F. W. Bower, San Francisco; R. B. Johnson, Kansas City; Mrs. H. W. Braden, El Paso.

Miss Fenton's beach party last evening was attended by the following: The Misses Balthache, Burnap, Belch, Valentine, Baldwin, Jessop, De War, Froehand, Froehand, Preston, Tyson, Holmes, Allen, Robinson, and Messrs. Jessop, Webb, Valentine and De War. At another beach party, given by Mrs. Mason Warner and Frederick Warner, for Miss Montague of Quebec, the guests were: Mrs. Fay, Miss Fanny Deveny, Miss Eva Olney, and Messrs. Perry Richmond, George Midener and Norman Fowler.

E. W. Pease has arrived from Los Angeles for a sojourn at the hotel. Other Los Angeles people there are E. R. Spaulding, Horace A. Clark and H. G. Bird.

Mr. and Mrs. John Martin of San Francisco are at the hotel. Mr. Martin is president of the North Shore Railroad, president of the California Gas Company, president of the Colgate Power Company, president of the Oakland and Sacramento Gas Company, and president of the John Martin Electric Company. Mr. Martin is also a member of the firm of the John Martin Company, is also at the hotel, accompanied by his wife.

A. W. Blom, of San Francisco, is at the hotel, accompanied by Mrs. A. Blom and Mr. P. S. Walker. The Misses Annie and Adella Laflin, who are prominent in San Francisco society circles, are to join friends at Coronado the third day of July.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Mullen of San Diego will go into camp this week in one of the palm cottages.

Mrs. Ralph Granger is the party from Paradise Valley, and William S. Hill, who will occupy one of the large tents of the city this season.

The crops in several provinces of Turkey have been seriously damaged by recent torrential rains and hail.

FIREWORKS ON HIGH.

Two Interesting Celestial Displays This Week—Moon and Mars Worth Watching Early Tonight.

Those who have time to turn aside for a few moments from the terrestrial fireworks which are so much in evidence this week, may be rewarded for their self-control by a wonderful display of the wonderful order of celestial mechanism.

TWENTY-FIFTH THOUSAND

Free-Labor Number

The Times has just issued another edition of its special four-page Free-Labor Number for circulation among "independent workers, captains of industry, and all employers and employees who prize their lawful rights." Its contents are mainly reproductions of editorial articles and facts and statistics which have appeared in this paper from time to time heretofore, and are now brought together in this form. The matter shows again, and even more clearly, what the Times stands for, viz.: Liberty regulated by law, and independent, untrammelled labor; also what it is unalterably opposed to, viz.: Strikes, boycotts, picketing, conspiracies and needless industrial disturbances, to the great detriment of the country.

CONTENTS

- I. To All Who Seek the Truth.
- II. Our Platform: For Liberty, Law and Labor—Against Strikes and Boycotts—For Industrial Freedom and Repose.
- III. Gen. Otis to a Workingman.
- IV. "A Spectre from the Grave."
- V. Getting Their Eyes Open.
- VI. Editorials: Editorial Declarations of Independence—Stand Fast—A Heritage of Unreason—Stubborn Facts, Refuting Falsehoods—Disseminated by Organized Labor—The Logic of Plain Truth—The Boycott Scarecrow—Strong, Brave Words from the Nation's Chief—Ringing Words from President Parry—'Halt and Call a Council of Reason'—A Stinging Rebuke to the Boycotting Gang—The Curse of Lawlessness—Court Condemns Boycotting.
- VII. Parry to the Manufacturer—'A Signal Man Swinging in the Night a Red Lantern Between Us and Perdition.'
- VIII. A Body Blow Given to Lawless Labor. (President Parry's Speech at Buffalo.)
- IX. Speech for Freedom by Gen. LaGrange.
- X. California—Los Angeles and Southern California—Announcement of the Times—[Advertisement.]
- XI. A Boycott Boomerang—Wagers in Southern California.
- XII. Seven Strike Failures.
- XIII. The Situation in Omaha—Recent Strikes, Boycotts, Lawless Violence and Failure.
- XIV. Mark These Plain and True Utterances.
- XV. Figures that Prove—Advertising and Circulation for Fourteen Years.

SANTA ANA.
"TRY" SINCE MIDNIGHT.
 SANTA ANA, June 30.—Santa Ana's new prohibition ordinance goes into effect at midnight, and commencing tomorrow this place will be one of the "dry" towns of Southern California. All the saloons are preparing to close without demonstration, and there will be no attempt to contest the law. The saloonkeepers have expressed a desire to see the provisions of the new law carried with all stringency so that the people may have a taste of real prohibition. Some of the grog shops auctioned their goods on hand, or conducted special discount sales of beer and whisky. In one case a sign is displayed to the effect that the saloon will close for repairs and renovation, to open September 1 with a full line of drugs. Several of the saloon and barkeepers will move to other towns to engage in business, one going to Oxnard and another to Los Angeles.

WOMAN'S CLUB PICNIC.
 The annual picnic of the Woman's Club of Santa Ana was held yesterday at Newport Beach, and was enjoyed by a large delegation of club members and friends. After luncheon the informal discussion of the day turned to the new prohibition ordinance, and the following brief talks were made: "The New Ordinance," by A. Marks and E. Mansur, Dr. I. D. Mills; "The Influence of the Woman's Club in Civic Life," Mrs. Redman and Hewitt; "If the Women Had the Franchise Would They Vote as Their Husbands Do?" Mrs. Cogburn and Mansur. There was a general discussion of the question as to whether a woman would be influenced in her vote by the effect it would have on her husband's position. A committee composed of Mrs. Cogburn, Marks, Mills, Higbie, Wimbler and Walker, and the principal address steps toward assisting in the furnishing of the children's room of the new library.

FULLERTON.
ANOTHER MURRY?
 FULLERTON, June 30.—Letters have been received from Covina asking for information which will lead to locating one Murry, who is alleged to have enticed young Oscar Longtin from his home there. A man named Murry worked here up to a few months ago, and he answers the description given, except his age, as it is not believed the Murry who was here was over 50 while it is claimed the Covina Murry is 65. The Murry who was in Fullerton was a prominent Mason and Odd Fellow, and stated to members of the latter-named order that when he left here he was going to Yellowstone Park with a friend, but it has since been learned he did go from here to Ansonia or Covina, where he ordered his mail forwarded. He had letters from the East, indicating he stood well there. His acquaintances here say they do not believe he is the man who left the country with young Longtin.

H. M. Friedman has received a dispatch announcing the death of his brother, Max S. Friedman, a prominent business man and Elk of Chicago. Max was a guest of his brother here and at Los Angeles, and was going out for the benefit of his health, but grew suddenly worse after he returned to Chicago.

RIVERSIDE.
OLD-FASHIONED PICNIC.
 RIVERSIDE, June 30.—The Fourth of July will be celebrated here in old-fashioned style. The committee appointed by the G.A.R. has been quietly at work, and while everything will be conducted on informal lines, all the day-at-home picnic will have a good time on the Fourth. It will be to go to Fairmont Park and have it. An all-day picnic will be held with all sorts of sports and pastimes. There will be addresses by Hon. E. C. Seymour, Rev. George Ringe, and others, and in the evening, there will be a fine display of fireworks, with music all day.

COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT.
 Loring Theater was filled with a representative audience last night, when a complimentary concert was given in honor of Miss Norma Rockhold (Rock). A Riverside girl, recently returned from Italy, where she achieved success as a vocalist of exceptional ability. Miss Rockhold, whose singing aroused the greatest enthusiasm, was assisted by the strong quartette, Mr. Griffith, Miss Bonnie Rockhold, Miss Dyer, Miss Heller and D. D. Gage. Miss Mae Heller and Miss Mary Roe acted as accompanists. The patronesses of the evening were: Mrs. J. J. Hewitt, Mrs. C. H. Low, Mrs. Matthew Gage, Mrs. E. R. Skelley, Mrs. Robert Bettner, Mrs. C. G. WILLARD'S STUDY OF MANY LIVELY CITIES.

SECRETARY OF THE MUNICIPAL LEAGUE AND HIS TOUR.

Found Best Example of Government in Cleveland, Ohio—Jobbers' Association Active in All the Bustling Towns, He Says.

C. D. Willard of the Los Angeles Jobbers' Association and the Municipal League returned yesterday from a six weeks' trip through the Middle West in the interest of those organizations. The purpose of the trip was to study the conditions which obtain in other large cities with a view to adopting here the best that they have to present and to guard against systems which other cities have found to be undesirable.

Wherever he went, Mr. Willard was treated with utmost cordiality. He found that the fame of Los Angeles has spread abroad in the land and the municipal officers of the various cities were anxious to give him the information he sought. At his home, No. 1855 South Flower street last evening he talked interestingly of his trip and of its results. He said:

"I visited nine cities in all, selecting those situated in the Middle West, because that region the commercial and political conditions are more nearly in line with our own than they are in the cities on the Atlantic Coast. The four cities I visited were Chicago, St. Paul, St. Louis and Cleveland, where I found in the work of the Municipal Voters' League and in the energy of the civic service so much to study, that I spent over a week there.

Undertook two distinct lines of study in reference to each city. I visited, one in behalf of the Jobbers' Association and the other in behalf of the Municipal Voters' League. For the former I examined into wholesale organizations and the lines of work they were undertaking, freight traffic questions, the relations between wholesalers and retailers and the methods used for developing and maintaining the jobbing trade. I found these organizations in every city I visited except two—and those two bore the reputation of playing a losing game in the wholesale business, that is to say, it came to me that center of business was not so favorably located. But the twentieth century wholesaler has discovered that if he wants business he must go after it just as other people have done, and must work not only as an individual, but collectively as a community.

"On the municipal side I found the most profitable study of good examples in Cleveland, which was the best governed city I visited, and in Detroit, and St. Louis. The city of Cleveland is doing to do, I was at Kansas City in the midst of the flood and had an admirable example of a strong and courageous American city face to face with a frightful calamity. Although the dispatches were filled with graphic accounts of the flood, I find that none of the people I meet have any adequate conception of the horror of that city's situation—such as it was during the progress of the flood, such as it still is in consequence of the disaster. But the way the people rallied and stood up together under that desperate stress was simply magnificent, and I am glad I was there to see and admire it.

"By the way, I discovered that a convention hall may have a variety of uses. Nearly a thousand refugees were accommodated in the enormous Kansas City structure, the eighth of the people I meet have any adequate conception of the horror of that city's situation—such as it was during the progress of the flood, such as it still is in consequence of the disaster. But the way the people rallied and stood up together under that desperate stress was simply magnificent, and I am glad I was there to see and admire it.

"I was interviewed in one or more newspapers in nearly every place I visited, because, gathering a considerable variety of municipal knowledge, I went from place to place I was able to compare each city with the others, and to find out what I could. Incidentally I may remark that I took good care in these interviews that Los Angeles should not get the worst of it.

METHODIST HOSPITAL.
 Probability of Large Methodist Institution to Take Place of Christian Hospital, Which Closes Its Doors September First.

While Los Angeles is to lose from the ranks of its life-saving stations the Christian Hospital, which closes its doors September 1, it may gain a thoroughly-equipped and well-supported hospital under the control of the general body of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Many there are who feel that now is a propitious time to launch the venture. For the past two years the Women's Home Mission Society has been endeavoring to establish a general Methodist hospital for the Coast and adjacent territory. The project has been warmly supported by the general body of the denomination, and now that its board of directors has definitely decided to close its doors, it is quite likely the Methodists will launch their enterprise.

Just at present, however, there is considerable uncertainty as to what definite move will be made, as several plans are in embryo.

The Pacific Coast Branch of the Women's Home Mission Society has appointed as its Hospital Committee Mrs. Foster, Mrs. C. Miller, Mrs. A. E. Foster, Mrs. F. F. Foster, Mrs. P. H. Bodkin, Mrs. F. M. Chambers, Prof. C. E. Hutton, W. K. Wing, Dr. A. W. Addison.

There has been some discussion of establishing a regular deaconess hospital, under the supervision of this society, but the society would prefer to give its help to the maintenance of a large institution under general Methodist control, and to supply its deaconess for hospital work.

The Methodist Ministers' Association appointed as a Hospital Committee, to collect and disseminate information, Rev. Otto Wilke, Rev. E. P. Ryland and Dr. G. F. Boyard.

The German Methodists have established their own hospital at the corner of Fifth and Olive streets and they have invited the other Methodists to join in supporting their institution.

This does not meet with the approval of all, however, and one prominent Methodist has secured the building of a new general Methodist hospital.

It has been suggested that the Methodist take the building and equipment of the Christian Hospital and continue the work; but the building is not considered satisfactory; and S. P. Mulford, acting president of the Christian Hospital, says the equipment of that institution will be sold out to small hospitals or physicians and the money put in bank for future use, should it be deemed advisable to reopen the institution.

The Methodist committees are to have a meeting next Tuesday, and at that time it is probable some definite policy will be outlined.

MEN'S DISEASES.

DR. O. C. JOSLEN.
The Leading Specialist.

I Wait For My Fee Until You Are Cured.

My reputation and practice are built on honor.

I make no misleading propositions, promise no impossibilities, but perform all I promise. I give you fair dealing, moderate fees, faithful service and speedy cures—they have won for me the confidence and patronage of the afflicted everywhere. Are you "weak"?

Pay me when I've cured you—not before.

"WEAKNESS"

I cure functional weakness absolutely. No internal dosing with concocted medicine. It is the only thoroughly scientific treatment for this disease.

VARICOCELE
 Absolutely painless treatment that cures completely in one week. Investigate my method. It is the only thoroughly scientific treatment for this disease.

STRUCTURE
 My treatment is absolutely painless, and perfect results can be depended upon in every instance. No cutting or dilating whatever.

CONTRACTED DISORDERS
 Be sure your cure is thorough. Not one of my patients has ever had a relapse after being discharged as cured, and I cure in less time than the ordinary forms of treatment require.

"Live All Your Years a Man." My copyrighted pamphlet, contains a scientific explanation of the disease that constitute my specialty. Mailed free upon request. Consultation and advice free.

DR. O. C. JOSLEN,
THIRD AND MAIN STREETS,
LOS ANGELES.

THE RESULTS OF OUR TREATMENTS ARE SUCCESSFUL, WHICH PROVES OUR METHODS CORRECT.

We call the attention of the public to ourselves as GRANTING UNBINARY SPECIALISTS. We court inquiry as to our ability and the results of our practice.

VARICOCELE.
 Every man having Varicocele can be cured, but any and every external application—medicines internally, electricity, electric belts—ARE ALL ABSOLUTELY WORTHLESS. There is but one method that will cure Varicocele. Dr. Harrison is the only specialist in Los Angeles using that method. Dr. Harrison guarantees an absolute, permanent and perfect cure. We will show dozens of men right here in Los Angeles who have cured. We cordially invite men to call.

CONTRACTED DISORDERS.
 Are cured by us. Every particle of poison thoroughly eradicated from the system. Every patient coming to us consults no one but Dr. Harrison, and his associates, but regular physicians. Each and every man coming to us for consultation, has his case carefully and understandingly looked into. Every case we treat resolves our personal attention.

STRUCTURE.
 This trouble we treat successfully by our improved methods, which never fail to bring about a cure. Electricity or electrical belts cannot do this trouble any good. When you employ either you throw your money away. Call and let us explain the nature of the trouble and how you can be permanently cured. We will give a written contract to every man we treat, requiring no money until a cure is effected.

TREATMENT FOR The Exact Cause

Good Results Are Not Had by Guessing, But by Knowing What to Do and How to Do It.

I am able to say this through the pleasure I do not produce temporary relief, but remove the "EXACT CAUSE" responsible for the condition. Patients who have been disappointed, and who have had chronic conditions follow long treatment will find a cure in my treatment. It is personally applied and every application is effective. You will note improvement from the first, which will be the result of a permanent cure and a re-establishment of functional order.

Weakness

Decline of functional activity, strength and vitality is usually always traceable to a disturbance in the functions of the reproductive system. Under my treatment functional equilibrium is restored, the nerve stimulation reduces the circulation is increased and strength renewed. My cures are absolute and permanent.

FREE SCHOLARSHIP CONTEST BEGUN.

They are off. The flag has dropped and the great annual race for the Times scholarships and cash prizes that go with them has begun. There are thirty known entries and several dark horses whose names have not yet been announced. So far as heard from, all of them have made a good start, and the contest promises to be one of the most spirited ever held in this educational center.

Twenty scholarships in the above named list of schools and cash premiums amounting to $1085 is what the girls and boys entered in the race are competing for. This list of scholarships will be increased so as to accommodate still more of the faithful workers; as soon as it is seen how many of them are making an earnest effort.

Of the schools already listed, something will be said from day to day, in order to acquaint the contestants and the public with the character of the institutions that are offering the scholarships. Yesterday, the Brownberger Home School was the topic of a short talk on schools. Today, attention is invited to the

LOS ANGELES BUSINESS COLLEGE.

This is the pioneer business college of Los Angeles, having been organized twenty-one years ago. Thousands of young people have been educated at this institution, and thousands more will be. It has the confidence and endorsement of business men, because it is a school where thorough work is done; where bookkeeping is taught exactly as books are kept in business; where shorthand is made easy; where penmanship is at its best; where efficiency all along the line is the goal to be reached.

The Los Angeles Business College has the honor of having graduated some of the most successful business and professional men of this city. A very neat booklet entitled, "What Our Boys Say," has just been issued by the management of the college. It is embellished with a number of half-tone engravings of prominent business and professional men who are graduates from the institution, and who endorse it in the warmest terms. Among the familiar faces and names noted are the following: Byron Eckmanbrecher, real estate broker and capitalist; Charles E. Van Loan, cashier Standard Oil Company; George R. Porter, Jr., vice-president and general manager Prescott Gas and Development Company; J. Fred Malar, Jr., treasurer Malar & Zohelien Brewery; A. C. Brode, with L. A. Soap Co.; F. U. Nofziger, lumber dealer and member of the City Council; Catesby C. Thom and Roger S. Page, attorneys-at-law and members of the Los Angeles City Board of Education, and others of equal prominence.

Some day the management of the school may point with pride to some boy or girl who won a scholarship in this contest, as being among the honored graduates of the institution.

NEW CANDIDATES.

Santa Ana comes to the front with a second candidate in the person of Miss Hazel Merle Ball, who is trying to obtain a musical education, and is prepared to do some hard work for a scholarship. Miss Ball and Miss Pedelt will make a lively campaign in Santa Ana and vicinity, and the peacemakers must choose between them whom they will assist this year to keep up the prestige of Orange county.

Other new candidates are Alva Harshman of No. 430 East Twenty-seventh street, Los Angeles; Minnie A. Hill of Chatsworth Park, and Isabel Parker of Hollywood.

DAILY COUPON.

At the foot of this column a coupon will be found which will count one point in favor of any contestant whose name may be written upon it when clipped from the paper and forwarded to the manager of the contest. Coupons may be sent in singly or in bunches. The manager would prefer to receive them in the latter case. They are arranged, counted and numbered. The coupon will be a daily feature of the contest, and the Times until the close of the contest, each copy of the paper containing one coupon which may be clipped out and sent to the manager of the contest according to the directions printed upon it.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Persons who desire to help any of the contestants in a more substantial way than by simply giving them their coupons, can do so by prepaying subscriptions to The Times. Credit will be given for the subscription, and the subscriber, in accordance with the amount prepaid, twice as many points being allowed for new subscriptions as for renewals. The money may be paid direct to The Times Mirror Company or any of its agents, or to the contestants solicitors in person. The Times Mirror Company, or one of its regular agents. A subscription made through a scholarship contestant will not conflict with the interests of the regular carrier or route owner.

A number of the contestants have already secured their new subscriptions, and are now in a position to give them a nice start.

Thursday morning the score will be published and will be added to each day until the close of the contest. It will be interesting to note whose name will be at the head of the list tomorrow morning and on the succeeding days.

Now Dr. Lorenz Found His Glove.

The Rev. Louis Albert Banks, in his new book, "On the Trail of Moses," uses the following anecdote, told of himself, by Dr. Lorenz, the famous Austrian "bloodless surgeon," to illustrate the blessings that often come to men in the guise of hardships:

Speaking before the Philadelphia Men's Club, Dr. Lorenz said: "Forty-four years ago I was a little and very poor boy. One day, wandering along the street, I found a single glove. I put it on. It was much too large, and contrasted with my feet, which were bare. Proud and happy, I walked to my home and showed my treasure to my mother.

"My dear boy," she said, "you will have to wear very hard to find the other glove."

"In the many hardships of later life I often remember the significance of those words. But at the age of 30, after many struggles, I had overcome all obstacles as a student, and arose to the head of the class. I was Dr. Albert. I taught general surgery, and the dream of my life was to become a famous surgeon."

"But the dream never came true. I contracted a peculiar form of eczema. I could not follow my chosen work, and after twenty years of the same disease, I could scarcely resist the temptation to blow out my brains. In consulting of my lot, Dr. Prof. Albert, he said to me: 'If you can't get along with wet surgery, try dry surgery.'

"So it was not by love, but by necessity, that I became a dry surgeon. But necessity is the mother of invention, and after twenty years of hard work, I found at last the other glove."—[Literary Digest.

RAILWAY BUILDING FOR SIX MONTHS.

LABOR TROUBLES AND HIGH PRICES CUT FIGURES DOWN.

First Half of this Year Shows Decrease on Last Half of Last Year. Railway Age Makes Interesting Study of Statistics.

Railway building in the United States has not progressed as rapidly during the first six months of 1902 as had been expected. The unrest in the labor world, due to the epidemic of strikes, and the high prices of track material have retarded the progress of much important work, and the difficulty of securing rails has continued, making it impossible to lay track as fast as the roadway was completed. The more important lines which have been pushed forward since January 1, 1902, are being pushed forward as rapidly as conditions will permit, but other new projects are making slower progress.

The new mileage completed during the first half of 1902 amounted to 231 miles, and the total for the entire twelve months of that year aggregated 466 miles. It has been confidently expected that the track laid in 1902 would exceed 600 miles, but the figures for the first six months do not make it certain that such a result will be attained.

Our returns for the six months are not entirely complete, but it is believed that the reports yet to be received will not materially increase the present figures, which show 221 miles of track laid from January 1 to June 30, 1902, in 175 lines in thirty-eight States and Territories. The following table shows the mileage by States:

FORGED ASSUMED NAME OF JOHN CZOLAR.

PRISONER CAPTURED IN LANDED HERE.

United States Marshal Chandler arrived yesterday with Feiten, who has obtained money from family of assassin's family.

For forging the name "John Hoffman," the alias under which John Czolar, brother of the assassin of President McKinley, was living in Los Angeles several months ago, Feiten was yesterday turned over to United States Marshal Osborne.

Chandler, United States Marshal of the Northern District of Ohio, placed in the County Jail here to await trial.

It will be remembered that a few days prior to President Roosevelt's visit to Los Angeles in May, John Czolar, alias John Hoffman, was taken by the police authorities of the city to the County Jail, in connection with the murder of President McKinley. It was while investigating the alleged forgery committed by Feiten that the identity of John Czolar was discovered.

Feiten, according to the evidence against him, wrote to Czolar's father, Jacob Czolar, in the East, in the name of "Hoffman," saying that Hoffman was sick, and in need of money. He also wrote to Czolar, saying that Hoffman was sick, and in need of money. He also wrote to Czolar, saying that Hoffman was sick, and in need of money.

Feiten captured the letter, abstracted the money order, and obtained the day's work of consulting papers. Later he wrote to the same name, saying that 450 was not enough, and that he was late in sending the money. He was then arrested.
